- A school creativity website is another nice way of promoting student creativity. I set up a student creativity club (post-primary) -they named their club The Prometheans. The website is a great way of showcasing their creativity in a way that can be enjoyed by the wider community -music, art, writing, film-making and other projects. They also designed the website and are involved in maintaining it. Here's a link http://prometheans.hamiltonhighschool.ieCiarán Collins
